

Babies bop and help others

MUSIC MAKERS: Arwen Abad, 5, Sadie Peckham, 1, and Shaun Spathonis, 3, at Boppin Babies.

NORTHSIDE musical tykes are proving you are never too young to do a charity gig.

Boppin Babies founder Vicky Abad said the funds raised from the organisation's holiday program would be donated to the Sunrise Children's Villages in Cambodia.

The centre, which teaches music to babies and toddlers, will donate its profits for the fourth year in a row, she said.

"The centre usually chose a different orphanage each year but the floods intervened last year so we are doing the same one again," Mrs Abad said.

The funds raised will be spent on educational programs, food and water purification, she said.

"It's really nice for the kids (to participate) and we explain how we're going to raise money to help other children."

The Bopping Babies holiday program is on tomorrow at 9.30am and 10.30am.

➔ Visit boppinbabies.com.au or call 3314 7400